

EU PROJECTS

bfi Steiermark - future success:
through intensive Europe-wide cooperation and numerous innovative projects

In the field of education and training, cross-linking of national and international perspectives and activities becomes more and more important. Participation in such projects not only brings new content-related impulses, but also international cooperation and exchange of knowledge on the highest possible levels. Since 1998, bfi Steiermark has been successfully participating in the development and implementation of transnational EU projects, either as the coordinator or as a partner. Since the beginning of our EU activities, we have achieved a proud track record of more than 100 successful projects. This success story will be continued in the future.

Following an internal “testing process”, a great deal of the innovative approaches, education and training measures for different target groups and publications developed in the EU projects become part of the seminar programme of bfi Steiermark. That way bfi Steiermark guarantees for education and training on a high international level that is adapted to the regional requirements. By implementing the project results into the bfi product catalogue we create a considerable range of education and training initiatives, which are based on our participants’ needs: The implemented project ideas range from education and training models for apprentices, e-learning solutions, further education and training programmes for project or quality managers, programmes to support foreign language learning, a big number of initiatives with regard to education and training (particularly for trainers and educators) to career counselling and job integration for people with special needs.

Moreover, bfi also benefits from the international exchange by transferring project results that have already been implemented in other countries and adequately adapting them. Vice versa, the competence of bfi Steiermark has found big international appreciation. Throughout Europe, bfi is regarded as a competent and reliable coordinator of development and pilot projects in different fields of education and training.
